

Honouring 150 Years of the birth of John McCrae and the memorable poem "In Flanders Fields".

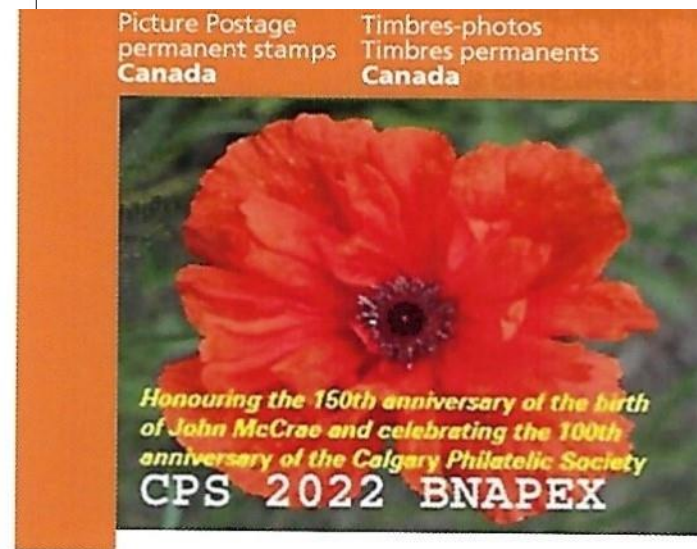

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

This cover is compliments of Brian Grant Duff of All Nations Stamp and Coin in Vancouver. You will recognize this cover as being made for the 100th Anniversary of Purdy's chocolate in 2007. This cover however has been overprinted on the back saying it is for the 115th Anniversary of Purdy's, and is numbered from 1 to 150. In addition the CPS 2022 BNAPEX logo is at the bottom left. The original cover is selling for $10-15 so what might this rarity of 150 be?

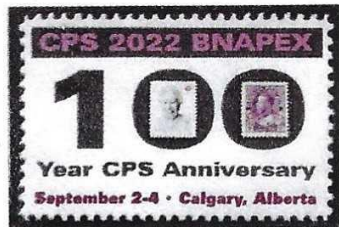

From the moment Richard Purdy opened his first chocolate shop on Vancouver's Robson Street, in 1907, it seemed clear that this chocolatier meant business. Locals relished at his mouth-watering sweets, prompting an expansion that had "Canadian success story" written all over it. Today, Purdy's Chocolates boasts more than 50 stores in British Columbia, Alberta and Ontario, and continues to thrive with many more openings set to take place before the end of the decade. Mr. Purdy's original recipe remains the cornerstone of this thriving family-owned and Canadian-operated business, which means we can experience the same rich blends as did those lucky enough to enter his first shop 100 years ago.

Dès le jour où, en 1907, Richard Purdy ouvrit sa première chocolaterie, rue Robson à Vancouver, il était clair que cet homme avait le sens des affaires. Ses succulentes bouchées eurent tôt fait de conquérir les palais les plus délicats de la ville, à telle enseigne que l'entreprise devint un véritable modèle de réussite au Canada. Aujourd'hui, une cinquantaine de chocolateries Purdy's font la joie des fins connaisseurs de la Colombie-Britannique, de l'Alberta ainsi que de l'Ontario, et de nombreuses autres boutiques ouvriront leurs portes d'ici la fin de la décennie. La recette originale demeure l'essence de cette entreprise familiale des plus florissantes, de sorte que nous pouvons nous délecter du même mélange onctueux que les premiers clients ont eu le bonheur de savourer, il y a 100 ans.
